A BIGGER PICTURE, INC. RECEIVES $500 GRANT FOR WORLD-CHANGING EFFORTS

Chanel Evans, Founder and Executive Director of A Bigger Picture, Inc. has been named as the DoSomething.org, “Do Something Seed Grant” Winner.

Washington, D.C. 6/21/12 – DoSomething.org, a national not-for-profit that helps young people change the world, announced today that Chanel Evans, 21, has been named the 2012 “Do Something Seed Grant” winner. Grant winners, age 25 and under, are chosen based on overall impact and creativity. This grant will help fund A Bigger Picture’s efforts to transform the lives and minds of girls in the D.C. area.

“Wow, this is such an honor,” said Chanel Evans, Founder and Executive Director. “At this stage of A Bigger Picture’s development, this grant is going to be pivotal in implementing our development program.” Nancy Lublin, CEO of DoSomething.org, said “The Do Something Seed Grant will help them do just that.”

A Bigger Picture, Inc. partners with schools, community centers and youth groups to provide girls with workshops, mentorship, enrichment activities, community service and traveling. The program, recently launched at a public charter school in Washington, DC, is designed to develop confident, positive, responsible, well-rounded young women. The organization was birthed from the passion of Chanel Evans to empower young girls and her recognition of the many obstacles, stresses and possibly life altering decisions pre-teen and teenage girls must make and hurdle as they develop from pre-teens to teenagers and beyond.

“A Bigger Picture provides more than just mentorship. We provide young girls with a place they can just be themselves to safely talk about the issues they face and receive proper guidance. Most importantly we have a travel component that encourages girls to think beyond their current environment," says, Chanel Evans
